The above Panduit Part Number(s) and QC Number(s) are certified to meet Panduit published specifications and military specifications as identified in the catalog. However, liability for any nonconformance is limited to the customer's purchase price of the Panduit part.

*Note: The customer part number is provided by Panduit's customer to Panduit and is provided on the certificate upon request of the customer. The customer is solely responsible for ensuring that the part number cross reference is accurate and to the latest revision number. Where the customer has provided their drawing for review and certification prior to Panduit accepting their order, Panduit is dual certifying the Panduit Part Number meets the Customer Part Number based on the drawing and revision provided to Panduit and listed on the purchase order identified above. If applicable and noted, the part also complies with the referenced Mil Spec part number.

The user of the Panduit product is responsible for verifying suitability of the product for the application and assumes all risk and liability in connection with its use.
